"New, then! Everybody ready with his partner! Start?"
Thus admonished by their leader, Mr. Jncob Mahler's four dancing classes of little people tripped off to the time of a lively two-step yesterday afternoon, surrounded by an admiring audience of mammas and eder sisters. The ball was destined to open the season and all his pupils of last year were en-couraged to come. They did, in conse-quence, about 100 children danced merrity couraged to come. They did, In consequence, about 100 children danced merrity all afternoon.

Pink satin slippers mingled with natty little black patent-leather "pumps." Airy lace flounces twirted about with the smartest of black broadcloth kulckerbockers. Small gentlemen, about 2½ feet high, seized equally small misses firmly about the waist with white-gloved hand and spun off on the polished floor, confident of their powers to avoid collisions and to trip the fight fantastic with grace and elegance. Their confidence was rarely disturbed, either. The little dancers of yesterday acquitted themselves remarkably well, with no considerations to be made because of their tenderage.

The beau of the assembly was Master Robert Coursy, aged 5 years, who appeared on the floor in an immaculate dress suit, an exact copy of the full-dress clothes of his elders. Black-tailed cost and knickers, his elders. Black-talled cont and knickers, natty little white pique waistcost, low cut; expansive white shirt front, surmounted with tiny pique bow—and not a made bow—and, unishing touch of clegance, white kid gloves. When Master Robert took out his partner, little Miss Isabel Hetzel, who is a real, fairy child at dancing, all the mammas and elder sisters hummed their admiration. Monday to visit Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Burkhari.

What a hard time the woman has who frets! You can see fret in every move she makes. You can see it in her face.

Of course fret is a kind of nervousness, but it isn't the aggressive kind. It's the specialty of the timid soul. Some women will worry and fret and stew all day long over nothing.

One is tempted to say that it's a habit and nothing else. Of course it does grow with encouragement, but the encouragement is unconscious, and the woman who frets is usually a good, true-hearted woman, who wants to be useful. Indeed, her anxiety to accomplish things is one

But fretting is very disagreeable, and helps other people to fret. Nearly everybody frets a little, but the person who accomplishes the most, and has the most friends and who inspires respect everywhere, is the calm person. You can see efficiency in every movement, and you envy her the evenness of her disposition.

Fretting may be the cause of disease, or it may be the result of disease, but one thing is certain, fretful women are women whose feminine organism is not in a normal, healthy state. This is established be-

There seems to be a physical cause for most habits people have, Certain deficiencies in the chin indicate feeble will-power, certain shape of mouth and nose indicates certain distinct tendencies. These things are plain to the student, however far-fetched they may seem to those of us who do not know how to interpret the signs. With women, though, it is quite certain that every unpleasant peculiarity of disposition is directly due to something not quite normal in the organism of her sex. A fretting woman will presently develop some more or less serious female trouble, perhaps all her life from girlhood she has had painful or irregular periods, or some unaccounted-for pains or aches. She hasn't paid much attention to them, and in fact they are about the only things she hasn't fretted about; she has sieges with the bearing-down sensation, possibly, or a dull, internal ache down in the side-some of these things she has, it is inevitable.

It may merely be that her periods occur too often, say every three weeks. This is a thing that is very common, but nothing is done about it. Is it not, however, the clearest possible indication of some disorder? Do you suppose the periods will presently come all right of their own accord? Instead of this, more than likely the event will shortly appear every two weeks, and then you may think it worth while to do something about it.

Do not be satisfied to take chances when there is anything unnatural about the menstrual function, because a perfectly regular and normal recurrence of this experience is the A B C of woman's health,

The safest thing for future comfort that the woman who frets can do is to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You hear lots of women say: "I wish I was like Mrs. So-and-So, nothing worries her." Now, you cannot be like the placid Mrs. So-and-So while you are troubled with any weakness or irregularity; but if you will take a short course of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine you will begin to see how much more you will have yourself in control, you will find the irregularity of your monthly sickness corrected and your general health greatly im-

Women grow so used to being not very robust that they don't realize how much they are missing that might be theirs. Now, a man may be run down and played out, but the right kind of food and the right kind of exercise will build him up, but a woman who has some female trouble can never be healthy until that female trouble is cured. She also will need certain physical exercise, if she wishes to develop all her powers, but she can never accomplish permanent success in building up health until the little derangement or inflammation is first overcome.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is such a safe medicine for women, and it has helped to health, such a multitude of very sick ones, that no really ambitious woman or really earnest woman, should disregard it, if she is fretful or has any of the other indications of female trouble. It is a splendid tonic for the reproductive system, curing all displacements and irregularities. Two generations of women have been
